

Simple Science

- Science is any branch of knowledge characterized by close observation, experimentation, classification of data, and the establishment of verifiable principles.
- Physics is the science that deals with motion, matter, energy, and their interactions.
- *To understand Physics we need to describe the objects and concepts using numbers or Physical Quantities.
- Statistics is the science that deals with the collection, tabulation, and systematic classification of quantitative data.